The diagrams illustrate four different hinge configurations for a door assembly. Each diagram shows a cross-section of the door (orange) and the frame (grey). The dimensions are as follows:

- Diagram 1 (Left): Shows a standard hinge configuration. Dimensions include a top hinge offset of 33mm, a top hinge hole diameter of $\varnothing 5$, a top hinge offset of 33mm, a top hinge offset of 37mm, a top hinge offset of 4mm, a door thickness (DH) of $H-44$, a door thickness of 35-45mm, a door thickness of ± 3 mm, a door thickness of 20mm, a door thickness of 17mm, and a door thickness of 7mm. The bottom hinge is labeled $\varnothing 4 \times 25$.
- Diagram 2: Similar to Diagram 1, but with a different top hinge offset of 33mm and a door thickness (DH) of $H-44$.
- Diagram 3: Shows a configuration with a top hinge offset of 33mm, a top hinge hole diameter of $\varnothing 5$, a top hinge offset of 33mm, a top hinge offset of 37mm, a top hinge offset of 4mm, a door thickness (DH) of $H-68$, a door thickness of 35-45mm, a door thickness of ± 3 mm, a door thickness of 20mm, a door thickness of 17mm, and a door thickness of 7mm. The bottom hinge is labeled $\varnothing 4 \times 25$.
- Diagram 4 (Right): Shows a configuration with a top hinge offset of 34mm, a top hinge hole diameter of $\varnothing 5$, a top hinge offset of 33mm, a top hinge offset of 37mm, a top hinge offset of 4mm, a door thickness (DH) of $H-68$, a door thickness of ≤ 40 mm, a door thickness of ± 3 mm, a door thickness of 20mm, a door thickness of 17mm, and a door thickness of 7mm. The bottom hinge is labeled $\varnothing 4 \times 25$.
